

Let's organize the expenses for the month

Authors

Beatriz Sánchez Barbero, Victoria Martín Zamorano, Universidad de Salamanca (Spain).

Type of activity

Workshop for money management for students with Intellectual Disabilities.

Target educational level

It can be aimed at users with Intellectual Disabilities, pre-service teachers, and professionals in the field of Intellectual Disabilities.

Context and situation

The resource being with an explanation to students with Intellectual Disabilities of:

- The need to teach and work on concepts related to money management (income, expenses, paycheck,...)
- The need to earn money.
- The need to manage money properly.
- The need to organize money.

This awareness is necessary for a successful transition to autonomous and adult life.

Solution

1. Introduction to concepts related to money management.
2. Introduction to the importance of having a job that contributes to the household income.
3. Introduction to the proper handling of different monetary units.
4. Introduction to the importance of planning expenses and managing paycheck income.